ABOUT THE ORGANISER

AIIFA SUSTAINABLE STEEL MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION is a premier industry body driving sustainable growth across India's steel manufacturing sector. Representing over 1,800 members—including induction furnace units, rolling mills, casting units, fabricators, and manufacturers—AIIFA advocates for environmentally responsible and economically viable practices that align with national development goals & global competitiveness.

Headquartered in New Delhi with twelve regional chapters across major industrial zones, AIIFA serves as a key interface between industry stakeholders and government bodies. It actively engages in policy advocacy, facilitates the implementation of government schemes, and collaborates on R&D initiatives with relevant ministries and institutions.

The association plays a critical role in promoting advanced steel-making and processing technologies, enabling its members to enhance product quality, reduce greenhouse gas emissions, and expand their global footprint. Through its flagship national conferences - cum - Exhibition and annual industry meets, AIIFA fosters strategic dialogue, shares best practices, and strengthens alignment with the government's target of achieving 300 million tonnes of steel capacity by 2030.

By translating policy engagement into actionable outcomes, AIIFA continues to champion innovation, efficiency, and sustainability—reinforcing its leadership in shaping a future-ready, low-carbon, and resilient steel sector for India.

ABOUT THE INDUSTRY

The Indian steel industry is a vital pillar of the nation's economic and infrastructural development, with the secondary steel sector playing a central role in driving inclusive and decentralized growth. Contributing nearly 60% of the country's total steel production, the secondary sector includes induction furnace units, electric arc furnaces, rolling mills, and re-rolling mills. These units are typically spread across semi-urban and rural regions, promoting local employment, fostering entrepreneurship, and ensuring the availability of steel for both large-scale infrastructure projects and small-scale industries. Their adaptability, cost-effectiveness, and growing emphasis on modern technology make them crucial to meeting India's ambitious target of 300 million tonnes of steel capacity by 2030.

The Indian steel industry, while growing rapidly and offering strong potential, faces key challenges such as raw material volatility, high energy and logistics costs, infrastructure gaps, and mounting decarbonization pressures. Global factors like trade barriers and the EU's Carbon Border Adjustment Mechanism further complicate the landscape. Addressing these requires cohesive efforts through policy reforms, technological upgrades, and stakeholder collaboration. At the same time, opportunities abound in green steel, circular economy practices, and advanced technologies like EIF and hydrogen-based DRI—all crucial for aligning the sector with India's sustainable growth and net-zero ambitions.

ABOUT AIIFA STEELEX – 2025

STEELEX-2025 aims to serve as a dynamic and integrated platform that fosters strategic collaborations, showcases cutting-edge innovations, and unlocks new business opportunities to strengthen India's steel industry. With sustainability at its core, the event will enable meaningful dialogue among policymakers, industry leaders, and key stakeholders to drive the transition towards low-carbon steelmaking—an essential move in addressing global climate imperatives and shaping a future-ready, resilient industrial ecosystem.
